

MARIE BECKMAN

Marie Beckman (1960) is a highly recognizable artist in the modern art of ceramics, based in Sweden. With over 30 years of sophisticated knowledge of form and proportion, Marie creates unique sculptures in which lines, surface and movement blend together as one complex but refined piece. "My works are made in stoneware, fired to 1230 C in electric or gas kiln. I use plaster molds to model the different parts in, then assembling them by hand, building in the motion and the rhythm in the surface. The glaze is semi matt, like skin, to promote all the different shades made by light and shadow." Her sculptures are repeatedly presented in important museums and galleries worldwide.
